20 - This weeks topic is important for teamwork because it is important to understand the differences in personalities that team members can have. People can be more introverted or extroverted. Its very beneficial overall to have a grasp of these personality types so that you can understand the people around. Differences among teams give them their strength. The personality types each have their strengths and weaknesses and combining people who are different allows their strengths to all shine through and benefit the group.

20 - If this were a religion class this weeks topic could be most related to missionary work. Through missionary work not everyone is going to feel touched by the spirit in the same way. Everybody feels the spirit in their own way and can be triggered by different things that are special to them. Through teaching not everyone is going to accept the gospel at the same speed or after the same lessons, because everyone is different spiritually. Heavenly father made all of our spirits unique to give us all our own strengths and that is very similar to our personality types and how it relates to the workplace.

20 - This experience relates to other experiences i've had because, through my own experiences i've learned that being friends with people that are too similar to yourself can honestly be extremely annoying. Being around people who agree with every thought and idea that I have doesnt help me grow or change as a person. Ive learned over the years that being around people that are different from me in important ways helps me become more of a confident individual and helps solidify my beliefs. It can definitely be challenging being friends with people that are very different that you but its definitely worth it overall. You cant experience growth without people that are different.

10 - Something I want to do differently next week is definitely finishing my work before saturday. I wanted to do that this week but I felt so sick Thursday and Friday so it didn't really feel possible. I don't want to be stressed out about my assignments on the weekend anymore. Hopefully I wont be sick again next week.

10 - A good smart goal for next week would be to finish my weekly reflection thursday night before midnight so I can enjoy my weekend.

5 - A concept this week that im unsure about is honestly how effective these personality tests are. I was getting mixed signals and im not sure who to trust.

5 - I put my assignments in git hub under my technical teamwork repository.

10 - My most significant takeaway is just my personality type. I never knew I was a campaigner and now that I do im reevaluating my past.
